The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim1 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Zane in view of Fairchild Jr.

Zane discloses a device comprising a base (10) section, a rocker support (12) having a swivel axes, a function unit (23) having counter support (25), operation elements (18) and release elements (15 and 19) run from a base section underneath the support (12).

Art Unit: 3764

As to a applicants claims of his device including operation elements in claim 1, labeled (27) and release sections in claim 2, labeled the same (27) the examiner considers it to be unclear as to exactly what is being claimed.

The examiner further notes that it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include other types of padding means on the shoulder members (22) in place of members (25) such as the members 14 of Fairchild Jr. for the purpose of increasing the comfort of the user.

In regard to claim 3 and as broadly claimed strut elements.

Claims 4-24 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Note the overall frame and padding structure of Jones et al.
